GOLD PROGRAM MOVING SLOWLY TO ENACTMENT

Fortified By Opinion of Cummings On Constitutionality

DEADLINE IS MODIFIED

Banks Instructed to Continue To Accept Coins And Certificates

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 18.—President Roosevelt's gold program moved slowly toward enactment on Capitol Hill today, fortified by an opinion of Attorney General Cummings that its constitutionality is "clear as a bell."

Principal opposition came from a hand-full of Republicans and Senator Carter Glass, Democrat, of Virginia, who was secretary of the treasury under Woodrow Wilson.

"The Attorney-General's opinion didn't change mine," said Glass.

Meanwhile, the Treasury modified its deadline for turning in all gold coin and gold certificate and instructed banks to continue to accept such coins and certificates as are gold.

The penalty clause was not suspended, although there were indications that the government will use considerable discretion in applying it.

Boy of Six Revived After He Breaks Thru Canal Ice

YARDLEY, Jan. 18.—Charles Bergen, six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Bergen, with other tots hurried from the first grade of the Yardley public school yesterday afternoon and ran down the school hill to the Delaware Canal near the college avenue bridge.

The Bergen boy was among the first to go out on the ice. He took several long slides. On the next slide he was carried to the center of the canal under the bridge. There was a noise of breaking ice, and the boy disappeared into the icy waters. The boy's companions were terrified and began screaming for help.

Mrs. Oliver Wharton and Mrs. John Nay were a short distance from the scene of the accident. When they saw what had happened they took up the cry. Mrs. Nay ran to Main street to call Officer South. Jermain Dickinson, a neighbor, heard the calls and ran to the bridge. By this time the Bergen boy had gone down for the third time. Mr. Dickinson dashed to the canal and through floating pieces of ice, made his way to the center. He saw the lad's still form in the bed of the canal. After skillful maneuvering, he succeeded in grabbing the lad's coat and brought him ashore.

The boy was unconscious and Chester Page, driving by, rushed him to the office of Dr. R. J. Horwell. Dr. Horwell working desperately succeeded in reviving him. A few hours later the child was permitted to return home.

Officer South renewed his warning to school children today to keep off the canal ice, and will maintain a special watch to see that his orders are carried out.

STRIKE IN HAVANA

Havana, Cuba, Jan. 18.—Despite government supervision of the American-owned Cuban Electric Company, employees went on strike today in the heat of a political crisis. Lights went out in the National Hotel where army and navy leaders were in conference with Secretary of State Sterling, who was regarded as temporary president by Cuban laws of succession, even though they had been suspended. The conference was carried on in candle light while army engineers were ordered out to operate the Light and Power plants of the big company, which supplies most of Cuba.

SEARCH FOR MISSING STUDENT

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—A tri-state search for Beatrice McKenna, 17-year-old suburban Overbrook High School student, who disappeared from her home Tuesday, was under way today in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and New York. Authorities are working on the theory she may have been kidnapped by a white slave ring. The child's parents reported her missing last night after a private investigation had proven fruitless. Miss McKenna was last seen Tuesday when she left her home to deliver a package at the home of an aunt in this city.

EDGELY

Mr. and Mrs. Harvard Himelright were guests Thursday of last week of Mr. and Mrs. William Talley, Camden, N. J., and on Friday of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Smith, Burlington, N. J.

Mrs. Herman Michel, Sr., spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Greenhalge, Philadelphia.

The members of the Edgely Branch of Needlework Guild who met to sew on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Thomas G. Hawks, were: Mrs. William Smyrl, Mrs. David Gallagher, Mrs. Burd Fowler, Mrs. Robert Pearson, Mrs. Calch Rue, Mrs. Philip Eckenroth, Mrs. Roland Quinn and Mrs. John Moyer.

Mrs. Margaret Schumacher Is Claimed By Death

Mrs. Margaret R. Schumacher, mother of the late Joseph A. Schumacher, for whom Post No. 1597, Veterans of Foreign Wars, at Croydon, is named, was claimed by death yesterday at her home, Bensalem Township, following an illness of several months duration.

Members of the Auxiliary of Joseph A. Schumacher Post, No. 1597, and relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral services from the Funeral Home of the H. S. Rue Estate, 314 Cedar street, on Saturday, at 2.30 p. m.

Rev. Leon Moore, a former pastor of the Bensalem M. E. Church will be in charge.

Interment will be made in Bristol Cemetery.

Friends may call Friday evening.

CHINESE WATCHWORD FOR WAR IS "PREPAREDNESS"

Leading Newspaper Touches On Highlights of Such Possibility

JAPAN IS ARCH-ENEMY

By John Goette

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
PEIPING, Jan. 17.—(INS).—"We wish to arouse the whole of China to prepare for the forth-coming Russo-Japanese War, or the second World War."

Thus begins an editorial in the long established, widely read Chinese daily of Peiping, the Yi Shih Pao. In introducing the watchword "prepare," the newspaper touches on the following highlights.

"China is not strong enough to precipitate a World War; nor will she be able to prevent it when it eventually comes. But she cannot escape its influence and therefore must prepare for that eventuality."

"Improvement of China's armaments and manufacture of poison gas are important steps. China may not use them but it should have them. Boys should learn to fire rifles, girls to be nurses."

"The coming war will decide whether China shall live or perish, and all should begin preparation immediately. It will be an opportunity for national re-birth."

"The world has reached a dangerous stage and China should no longer cheat itself by talking of world peace. Without the last World War Poland would have had no chance of renaissance. France could not have recovered Alsace-Lorraine. In the event of the coming war, if she does her best to protect herself, China should not be afraid of it."

While Chinese intelligentsia is thinking in this manner, the Japanese military attaché's office in Peiping has been issuing official statements which arouse public storm in the newspaper. In these pronouncements, China is warned that in event of hostilities between Japan and a second power, China is to remain neutral at least, and preferably to place its resources at the disposal of the Japanese army and navy.

Another statement from the same Japanese source goes further and is continued on page three.

Officers Are Named For The P. T. A. at Hulmeville

HULMEVILLE, Jan. 18.—Election of officers and presentation of an American flag to the school board interested those who attended the meeting of Hulmeville-Middletown Parent-Teacher Association in the school house last evening.

The new president of the association is Mrs. Harry Rickerson, who succeeds Joseph Keen. Other officers chosen last evening are: Vice-president, Mrs. Lynn Schatz; recording secretary, Joseph Keen; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Richard A. Hopkins; treasurer, Mrs. W. H. Johnson.

The flag which last month was presented by the Rev. Charles Faunce on behalf of Washington Camp, 789, P. O. S. of A., to the P. T. A., was last night presented by the latter organization to the school board. The Rev. Faunce was invited by the P. T. A. to make the presentation speech, and in the absence of members of the Hulmeville or Middletown school boards the Rev. James C. Gilbert accepted the banner in their behalf. A number of members of the P. O. S. of A. Camp were present.

Colored patriotic slides were shown by the Rev. Faunce, the pictures including high-lights in American history. The illustrated lecture was much appreciated.

During the business meeting which preceded the showing of the slides, two committees were appointed by the new president, these being: Hospitality, Mrs. William Perry and Miss Anna MacCorkle; membership, Miss Elizabeth Cockle and Mrs. John Corrigan, Jr. Other committees will be named later.

A decision was reached to join the state and national Congress of Parents and Teachers. This decision followed a brief address by Mrs. John Flood, of New Hope, president of the Bucks County P. T. A., who explained the advantages of membership in these two groups. Another visitor last evening was Mrs. H. C. Lamb, Trevoze, treasurer of the county organization.

MAKING SURVEY OF OFFICIAL RECORDS AND PUBLIC BUILDINGS IN BUCKS COUNTY; WORK BEING FINANCED AS CWA PROJECT

Mrs. Warren S. Ely Is In Charge and Has Staff Of Five

TO COMPILE THE DATA

Same Project Is Under Way In All Counties Of State

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 18.—In order to make the official records of Bucks county more accessible to the public and to ascertain whether the public buildings of the county are adequate for the purposes for which they are used, a general survey is being made by the Department of Public Instruction and the State Archivist.

The entire project is being financed under the Civil Works Administration and in Bucks county is in charge of Mrs. Warren S. Ely, wife of the librarian of the Bucks County Historical Society. Members of her staff, limited to five for the present survey, include Mrs. Grace Lashelle, of Chalfont; Mrs. Harry J. Shoemaker, of Doylestown; Alden Collins, of Doylestown; Herbert E. Kratz, of Chalfont, and Byron Sommer, of Shelly.

After the completion of the survey the records will all be compiled in a volume of State archives, copies of which will be placed in various public buildings of the different counties of the state. A similar survey is under way in every Pennsylvania county.

The present survey is limited to two months, and according to Mrs. Ely, the work in Bucks county is considerable ahead of schedule. This week will complete the work at the Court House.

Hundreds of old musty records had to be dug out of the various offices of the Court House during the past two weeks. The same type of research will take place in the various towns of the county, in the banks, the newspaper offices, historic buildings of all sorts, and wherever there is a depository of data of historical interest. Old church records will be reviewed, loose manuscripts of every description and old Bible records of interest.

A record will be made in the various offices of Bucks County to ascertain what type of filing system is used and all this will be recorded in the official book to be published later. This will make it possible for a stranger coming into Bucks county to first refer to the official Archive book where it will be possible to find out practically anything pertaining to Bucks county and the various towns in the county.

Yesterday the committee in charge of the work was completing a survey of all of the county buildings. Considerable data in compiling the official record is being gathered at the Bucks County Historical Society.

VISITING CLUB GIVES PROGRAM AT YARDLEY

Quakertown Women Are Participants in Fine Club Program

TEA IS ALSO SERVED

YARDLEY, Jan. 18.—The Yardley Civic Club was host to the members of the Quakertown Women's Club yesterday afternoon in the club rooms at 2.45. A very delightful program was given by the visiting club, and was opened by Mrs. Howard J. Ozias, president of the Quakertown Club, who introduced Mrs. Mary Benner, who sang, "A Dream" by Bartlett, and "Home from School," by Gertrude M. Rohrer. Mrs. Grege LaSpina, then read one of her original stories, "The Capitulation of Marta" (A story of the great Melting Pot.) Mrs. Benner then sang "Morning" by Oley Speaks.

The younger members of the Quakertown club then presented a one-act playlet, "The Siren," which included the following cast: Mattie Eaton, Mrs. Henry Kinsey; Anne Carroll, Miss Louise McGovern; Lizzie Pike, Miss Julia Serdock; Lucy Watkins; Mrs. Clara Strunk; Alfreda, Mrs. Tobias Minkie. The scene took place in the parlor of Mattie Eaton's home in Herling Port, Maine, on a summer's day.

This program was the one which The Women's Club of Quakertown presented at the opening of their club rooms, a few days ago. At this program Mrs. D. Erdman wrote an original song for the occasion.

Tea was served by the members of the Yardley Club, with Miss Lillian E. Van Artsdalen, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Fred W. Beans, Mrs. Alfred A. Dansey, Mrs. Donald Clemens, Mrs. Kinsey Dickel, Mrs. Harvey Funk and Mrs. A. S. Cadwallader.

Among the guests present were: Mrs. Miles Fisher, Mrs. Charles Broome, Mrs. C. Simpkins, Mrs. A. Treffinger, Mrs. R. Benner, Mrs. R. Gerhart, Mrs. F. Henderson, Mrs. D. Erdman, Mrs. Grege LaSpina, Mrs. C. Meyer, Mrs. F. Sommers, Miss A. Bullock, Mrs. H. Hinkel, Mrs. H. Feigley, Mrs. Roberts, Miss E. Ochs, Mrs. T. Yochum, Miss Ray Roberts, Mrs. Allen Smith.

Six Grandchildren Carry Mrs. DiNunzio To Her Grave

Angela DiNunzio carried her to her last resting place in St. Mark's Cemetery this morning. This group of pallbearers included: Nicholas, Anthony, James and William DiNunzio; and Samuel and John DeLissio.

The funeral for the aged woman, who had passed her 83rd anniversary, was held from her late residence, 930 Beaver street, and mass was said at 10 o'clock at St. Ann's R. C. Church by the Rev. Fr. Rocca. Burial was made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

There were many relatives and friends who attended the funeral, and a large number of floral pieces were sent by those who mourned the loss of the woman.

The late Mrs. DiNunzio was known to countless people in Bristol and vicinity, having in spite of her advanced age worked until five years ago in fields of truckers in this section.

TEN KILLED IN WRECK

Harbin, Jan. 18.—At least ten persons were killed today when the west bound trans-Siberian express train was wrecked by bandits about 20 miles west of here. One Belgian and four Romanians were among the dead. The bandits had pulled up tracks for several hundred yards at the edge of a cliff. When the train hit the twisted rails, the locomotive and the first five pullman cars plunged over the cliff and caught fire.

RESCUED BY FIREMEN

Philadelphia, Jan. 18.—Several persons, including a child and a bed-ridden sick man were rescued by firemen with ladders, and 150 other guests were forced to flee in scanty attire to the wind-swept city streets when fire damaged the Hotel Irving at 7th and Walnut streets. The blaze, believed to have been started by a cigarette stub carelessly tossed into a waste basket had gained considerable headway before firemen were summoned. No one was seriously injured.

18½ POUND BABY DOING NICELY

Chester, Jan. 18.—Mrs. Thomas Czarnok and her 18½ pound baby daughter, a veritable phenomena-gargantua, today were reported to be doing splendidly. Physicians expressed the opinion that the child, born yesterday, was probably one of the largest ever born. Its weight is the average high for babies at least six months old. The mother, who is 36, has another daughter and a son. The father is a railroad worker.

CLUB TO MEET

DR. HARDING DIES

Worthington, O., Jan. 18.—Dr. George T. Harding, Jr., 55, only brother of the late president, Warren G. Harding, died at his home here early today from a cerebral hemorrhage. Dr. Harding had been ill for a week. At his bedside when death came were Dr. Harding's wife, his son, Dr. George T. Harding, 3d; Charles W. Harding, another son, and Mary Elizabeth Harding, a daughter.

TO SIGN OLD AGE PENSION

Harrisburg, Jan. 18.—Ending a legislative battle started before the war, during the career of James J. Maurer as a member of the House, Governor Gifford Pinchot was to sign the Old Age Pension legislation this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The bill, sponsored at the recent special session by Representative Blumberg of Philadelphia, appropriates $6,000,000 from liquor profits for aid to aged persons over 70. It will become effective December 1, 1934. The signing will take place at St. Luke's Hospital, New York, where Governor Pinchot is recuperating from an attack of shingles.

PROPOSE AMENDMENT

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18.—A constitutional amendment giving Congress the power to provide a uniform system of primary elections for the nomination of candidates for president and vice-president was proposed today by Senator Stetler, Republican, of Oregon, as a means of insuring popular choice for the nominations. Stetler will introduce the amendment to the Senate within the next few days. The proposal would give Congress power to impose presidential primaries on all states upon a uniform basis. It would give Congress authority to declare the winner of the primaries, nominees of their parties for president and vice-president. The amendment would wipe out the old time convention, state and national. It would eliminate such politically controlled conventions in which the popular choice and winners of presidential primaries have gone down to defeat before the hand-picked candidates of politicians meeting in smoke-filled rooms. Enactment of the amendment probably will take years to accomplish because of its tremendous effect upon the presidents of the future.

INAUGURATE PLANS FOR PRESIDENT'S BALL HERE

Affair to Be Held in St. Mark's Hall On January 30th

NAME THE COMMITTEES

Plans were inaugurated last night for holding a ball in Bristol in conjunction with a similar movement throughout the nation in honor of the birthday anniversary of President Roosevelt, January 30th.

A meeting was held in Hibernian Hall, Corson street, and presided over by Martin J. Fallon, Jr. as chairman. Committees were named and the general plans discussed.

The affair is to be staged in St. Mark's hall and every effort is to be made to make it a big affair.

Committees:

Tickets—Herbert McGinley.

Music—Paul McGinley, Melvin Snyder.

Decorations—William Gallagher.

Funds derived from the affair will go into a national fund for an endowment for the Georgia Warm Springs Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

George Hoffman is secretary of the committee.

President Roosevelt, who derived benefit from the waters at Warm Springs, Ga., after suffering with infantile paralysis, was instrumental in the establishment of the foundation of which he is the president. He makes Warm Springs his winter home.

Fun Seekers Class Conducts Election; Plans Bake Sale

Those affiliated with the Fun-Seekers Sunday School Class, Bristol Presbyterian Church, taught by Miss Dorothy Bair, met last evening at the home of Anita Zug, Jackson street. A business meeting was held, at which time it was decided to hold a bake sale on February 24th.

Election of officers took place and those elected for the coming year are: President, Anita Zug; vice-president, Doris Barr; secretary, Anna Keers; treasurer, Evelyn Streeter.

A social time and refreshments were also enjoyed.

BUCKS COUNTY EGGS SCORE MOST POINTS

Win Out Over Every County in State at Farm Products Show

DID NOT GET BANNER

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 18.—Bucks county had the highest number of points for the most winnings in eggs of any county in Pennsylvania at the State Farm Products Show at Harrisburg this week, it was officially announced today by County Farm Agent William Greenawald. The championship banner was not awarded to Bucks county however, because Lancaster county has 157 dozen eggs exhibited and Bucks county had but 98 dozen.

But Bucks county eggs were the talk of the show this year. Members of the Bucks County Producers' Co-operative Association, commonly known as the "Doylestown egg auction," received numerous awards in the egg show.

The Doylestown Auction exhibiting in the commercial pack, won a third prize in white eggs and a second in brown.

In the Hatchery class, five dozen, Taylor Brothers, Newtown, won first prize and a third in the one-dozen class.

Howard Moyer, Pottsville, won a third prize in the commercial class for one-dozen exhibits.

In the farmers' class, one dozen white eggs, winners included the following: Norman Kriebel, Doylestown, fourth; E. L. Hitchman, Chalfont, fifth; Frank Buttrill, Doylestown, eighth; William O. Moody, Riegelsville, ninth.

H. W. Billmeyer, of Steinsburg, won a third prize for five dozen brown eggs.

Winners in the farmers' class, one dozen brown eggs: William O. Moody, Riegelsville, fourth; Thomas McLeod, Solebury, fifth; Walter Sanders, Newtown, sixth; A. Krutsky, Hatboro, seventh; A. T. Holmes, Ottsville, ninth; Herman Ott, New Hope, tenth.

In the potato show, A. H. Vasey, Lumberville, won a third prize in the Green Mountain class. In the Russet class the following Bucks county farmers were winners: Warren Sames, Richlandtown, fifth; A. H. Vasey, Lumberville, sixth; Loux Brothers, Richlandtown, seventh.

One of the outstanding honors of the entire State show was captured by a Plumsteadville, Bucks county dairy farmer, when Claude Myers, of the Lady Dawn Farm, won first prize in milk in the retail class in the largest field that ever exhibited in Pennsylvania.

Bolton Farms, of Bristol, won eight first prizes in addition to junior championship and grand championship in females in a field of over 100 entries in the Guernsey class.

Fritzlynn Farms, Pipersville, Bucks county, owned by William F. Fritz, president of the Doylestown National Bank, won the award for the champion junior bull of the show again this year. This animal, "Fritzlynn Danton," was sold to J. W. Hack and Sons, of Bloomsburg, Pa., and came down to the show to sweep aside a nifty field of competitors.

Mr. and Mrs. A. Carango Are Hosts at Their Home

Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Carango, Lafayette street, were hosts at their home last evening.

The Misses Annabel Manze and Frances Denny entertained with singing and dancing; Dominick Sakolla, with a tap dance; Elmer Spadacino was the winner in the pie contest.

Refreshments were served to: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Dominick Sakolla, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sakolla, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Yanira, Mr. and Mrs. Eimer Spadacino, Tony Tulio, the Misses Rose Mary Pico, Rose and Angela Carango, Bristol; George Brent, James Hagney, John Baldino, Trenton, N. ## FLESH FROM FINGERS

As he attempted to clean a machine at the Paterson Parchment Paper Company plant last evening, Walter Piche, 219 Jackson street, had one of his fingers caught. The flesh was torn loose from the member, and at the Harriman Hospital, where he is being treated, an attempt may be made to graft skin.

Miss Lorraine Lovett, 1711 Farragut avenue, is slightly improved following a serious operation at St. Christopher's Hospital, Monday.

DENIES MARRIAGE WHICH YARDLEY JUSTICE CAN'T PROVE

Man Charged With Desertion Says Ceremony Was Never Performed

RECORDS ARE MISSING

Witnesses Also Deny They Attended Any Such Ceremony

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 18.—Did Justice of the Peace Charles H. Davis, of Yardley, marry Leonard Comisa, 21 Bayard street, to Anna Yuhniewsky, Philadelphia, on April 8, last, in his office?

This is the question which is perplexing a number of people who are interested.

Justice Davis is sure he married the couple but he can't prove it. He lost the record which should have been sent to Doylestown, the county seat of Bucks County.

Comisa is now on trial charged with desertion in Mercer Court. He revealed yesterday through his counsel that he intends to prove he never married the complaining witness and consequently cannot be accused of deserting her.

The State had previously offered evidence to show that Comisa married Anna Yuhniewsky in Yardley on April 8, last, and lived with her until September 9, when he left her, saying that he was going to Philadelphia to get a job.

Charles H. Davis, a justice of the peace, of Yardley, testified that he performed the ceremony and received $5 in payment. However, he testified, after he filed the marriage application it disappeared and consequently he sent no record to Doylestown, the county seat of Bucks County. He was positive, however, that Comisa was the man who said "I do" when he was asked if he took Anna Yuhniewsky as his lawful wife.

In support of his contention that he never wed the Yuhniewsky girl, Comisa's counsel, John H. Kafes, told Judge Schroth and a jury that he would show that Comisa had a wife living in New York and as a consequence he was aware that he could not enter into a second marriage until a divorce had been obtained. Kafes said that Miss Yuhniewsky had been apprised of this fact, and begged the defendant to take her away from her home because she was mistreated.

The disclosure that Comisa has a wife living in New York caused a stir in the courtroom, for if the State succeeds in proving that he went through a legal ceremony in Yardley, he is liable to prosecution in Pennsylvania on the more serious charge of bigamy.

The Yuhniewsky girl, who is soon to become a mother, said that Comisa took the marriage certificate away from her before he left her. They had resided, she said, on Hudson street during the time they lived together. She testified that the defendant introduced her at his wife wherever they went, and that he gave her a ring. Asked where the ring was, she replied that she "hooked" it because she was "broke."

The sister of the complaining witness, Marie Yuhniewsky, testified when the pair returned from Yardley, Anna greeted her father with: "Pop, we're married."

This testimony was supported by the father, Michael Yuhniewsky, who quoted Comisa as saying: "Well, I married your daughter."

Defense counsel lost no time in attacking the State's case, the very first witness, Cosimo Lambardo, of Hudson Street, denying that he had been a witness

WAR IS WHAT WE DON'T NEED

The weakness to glorify everything associated with war is not peculiar to children. Countless adults have the same blind spot on their mental retinas. A common complaint against school histories is that they glorify war and warriors and belittle before the adolescent mind the importance of incidence, institutions and individuals of even greater historical importance. History too often treats war subjectively when it should be treated objectively.

Men all over the world, some of whom saw the horrors and futility of the World War, are mumbling with childlike ignorance that we need another war to settle world problems. "The next war" is discussed as a certainty in offices, grocery stores, club lounges and smoking cars or wherever men idle the time away with loose-thinking and muddled-headed conversation. Do they not know that the homespun citizen who flounders about among big subjects is as much an enemy to peace as imperialistic governments?

Any one with the capacity for orderly thinking knows that instead of settling the problems of the world another war would very nearly blast the civilized world out of existence. The last war very nearly did that.

The mind which looks to another war as the only way out of our present economic troubles is a mind numbed by years of unemployment, unprofitable business, losing politics and general despair. As long as the world is in this state of mind there will be a real threat of war.

A JAPANESE PUPPET

The difference between Caesar and Pu-yi is that Caesar thrice refused the kingly crown, while Pu-yi refused it only twice and then accepted it. He intended to accept from the beginning, but according to an old Chinese custom, the Manchian emperors are expected to pretend reluctance to accept the honor.

Pu-yi is now the head of that part of Manchuria under Japanese domination. A non-committal title has been selected for him which means either president or sovereign, but the title does not matter. He will be like the old Merovingian rois faincants, the Kings who did nothing while the mayor of the palace ruled in their names. He is a Japanese puppet who will be maintained in comfort in his "palace" while Japanese agents do the ruling.

A burnt child dreads the fire but it's different with widowers.

Disarmament is like a highly formal event in society. No one wants to arrive until everyone else is there.

Wealth isn't everything. Now that you have money, they no longer make the agate marbles you coveted when you were a kid.

Suggestion to advertisers. Ask yourself: "Which do people remember longest? Thinks they see or things they hear?"

Suggestion for your office wall: A sign reading "Life is made up of time and the person who takes my time takes my life."

Somewhat we just can't help imagining, after hearing the average radio announcer, that he sleeps with his own picture under his pillow and writes love letters to himself.

CROYDON

On Tuesday evening, an electric demonstration was given by Messrs. Hanna and Wolf, representatives of the Pennsylvania Railroad, to members of the Bucks County Rescue Squad and Croydon Fire Company at the fire house. The demonstration was by means of an elaborate equipment showing the dangers of defective electric devices; proper way of testing rubber gloves and the danger of using rubber gloves that are not subject to a periodical inspection; danger of flying kites, climbing poles along the P. R. R., etc. The Squad announces a change in its telephone number, Call Bristol 9861. There is no charge for ambulance service.

LANGHORNE

Byron Ehlen, Easton, spent Sunday here with relatives.

HOW WOMEN CAN WIN MEN AND MEN WIN

The Favor of Other Men

Unless two pints of bile juice flow daily from your liver into your bowels, your food decays in your bowels. This poisons your whole body. Movements get hard and constipated. You get yellow tongue, yellow skin, pimples, dull eyes, bad breath, bad taste, gas, dizziness, headache. You have become an unlikable, foul-smelling, sour-looking person. You have lost your personal charm. Everybody wants to run from you.

But don't take salts, mineral waters, pills, laxative pills, laxative candies or chewing gums and expect them to get rid of this poison that destroys your personal charm. They can't do it, for they only move out the bile end of your bowels and that doesn't take away enough of the decayed poison. Cometics won't help at all. Only a free flow of your bile juice will stop this decay poison in your bowels. The one mild vegetable medicine which starts a free flow of your bile juice is Carter's Little Liver Pills. No calomel (mercury) in Carter's. Only a mild vegetable extract. If you would begin back your personal charm to win men, start taking Carter's Little Liver Pills according to directions today. 25c at drug stores.

Refuse "something like that" for it may grip, loosen teeth or cold rectum. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name and get what you ask for. ©1933, C.M. Co.

CHAPTER FIFTY-SIX

It was all over. And Patricia, lying in her own bedroom, safe, secure, flung across the bed, was sobbing. She was still in evening dress, Julian's orchids, crushed and crumpled, still clung to her rhinestone shoulder strap. She had wept, she thought, forever. She thought that she would never stop.

For weeks she had controlled herself. The floodgates were loosed at last. Deeper, deeper she forced her shaking body into the pillows. She wanted to beat her head against the floor, to scream until she could not think, to do anything that would annihilate the desperation of her spirit.

Her own violence wore her out but she was still sobbing quietly when Julian rapped at the bedroom door.

"It's very late, Patricia."

No answer from the girl.

"Please unlock the door. Let me in. I must talk to you. You must be sensible."

"Go away, Julian. For heaven's sake go away."

"When you want me I'll be in the card room. I'll wait, if need be, till morning but we must talk it out."

His footsteps retreated. She heard him going down the stairs. After a long time she sat up and looked dazedly about the familiar, luxurious, rose-colored room. Outside the storm, like her own despair, had reached its height. Drapes of rosy taffeta shut out the sight of it but not the sound. She could hear the wild dash of the rain against the panes, the creaking of the trees, the howling of the rain.

Julian was waiting for her in the card room. As she had seen him a thousand times before, she imagined him now, slumped in the leather arm chair, a pack of cards spread on the table before him, his forehead knotted beneath his shock of snow white hair, his gray eyes intent, his mind absorbed upon some problem of the only game he considered worth a moment's concentration. Julian was waiting for her to come and talk it out. What use was further talk? There had been too much talk already. Words that got them nowhere.

Julian would never understand. He was incapable of seeing her side of it. For him the problem had been solved. He, Julian Haverholt, had saved the situation.

He had saved the shreds of her reputation. Certain doors might be shut to her, certain stories might go round, certain very proper people might sniff and raise the eyebrows. The fact remained that Julian's sanity and nonchalance had saved again. He had snatched victory from defeat. By his magic wizardry he had turned a major scandal into the amusing picture of a front-page romance. The girl admitted that, bleak and unrequited, a spotless reputation—and here was barely that—was little solace to a breaking heart. Futility to remind herself that other girls had married men they did not love for reasons less urgent. She was not like other girls. She was herself.

"I can't," she said aloud. "I can't."
The storm raged on. The windows shrieked as if they might burst in the lashing gale. Presently she walked across the room, pulled back the drapes and peered through the streaming panes into the wilderness of the night. She stood there for many minutes. Once she whispered, "Clark."

The wind whined in maniacal fury, the tree tops noted together, somewhere a loosened shutter, blown with every savage gust, banged to and fro against the house. The cataract of noise was maddening to insanity. That shutter. There it went again.

"Why doesn't someone fix it?" Patricia demanded in querulous, near hysteria. Her own voice frightened her. Pressing her hands against her throbbing temples she turned from the window, jerked at the drapes. Something caught. The pin that held her orchids. She tore the ruined flowers free, flung them to the floor.

Suddenly she removed her crumpled frock, walked to the closet and selected not a nightgown but a tailored suit. She hardly knew what she was doing. Mechanically she stepped into the skirt, pulled on the frilly little blouse, the simple coat. Next, she changed her stockings and her shoes. Her plan was formulating. She had borne enough; she could bear no more. Escape at any cost was the essential thing. To pit her decision against Julian's will, to face his arguments, his threats, his pleading was impossible tonight. And she must leave tonight. At the desk where she had sat so often, she seated herself to write her parting note. How hard it was to frame. A dozen efforts were cast aside. All at once Patricia swept the crumpled sheets together, tore them into bits, tossed them into the wastebasket.

"You coward," she said. "You utter coward."

What had she been about to do? Often Julian Haverholt called her absurd and childish and foolish. Those terms had stung. Still at her greatest opportunity to display her personal integrity, her common decency, her bravery, she had reacted like a frightened, vicious child. In her own unhappiness she had forgotten Julian. If he had failed to see her side of it she had most certainly failed to see his. Because she was wretched she would rob him of the triumph of a life-time. She owed much to Julian. She owed him less than marriage and more than flight. There must be some middle ground. Patricia found it.

By reason of their engagement, she could in all dignity insist that she should leave this roof. Julian himself should accompany her to a hotel. Until the bridge marathon had run its course, the engagement should stand. Upon the termination of the match, she would slip from Julian's life and from the world that knew her, and try to find what happiness she could in other ways than playing bridge. So Patricia planned it.

In a mood more mature than she had known in her nineteen years, Patricia pulled out the smart pigskin bag that had once delighted her and knelt to pack the necessary clothes. After all, there was a kind of bitter satisfaction in knowing that the worst had happened and that she had survived it. From the beginning she had feared exposure. She had been exposed. From the beginning she had feared that Clark's love was not for her. That, too, was true.

It was at a time like this that the gambling blood her father gave her stood the girl in good stead. It's all in the breaks, Patricia, he had told her so many times. No use whining, take the cards as they lay. That goes for life, too. I guess it goes for anything. Perhaps, she had lost. She had gambled and she had lost.

Anyone can smile when winning; the test comes in defeat. James Randolph Warren would have been proud of his daughter could he have seen her square her shoulders, pick up, her bag and cart down the darkened stairs to fight it out with Julian Haverholt.

Holding carefully against the balustrade, the bag bumping against her knees with every step, Patricia reached the foyer. The foyer too was pitchy black. Outside the storm continued unabated. A tapestry, blown by a savage current of air, gave her an unpleasant start as it brushed against her arm. The noise was incredible. She heard the wild clamor of the wind, the ceaseless banging of the shutter, the creaking of the house itself, as she groped toward the card room and observed in faint surprise that the door was closed. Odd of Julian to close the door.

"I'll wait, if need be, till morning. I must talk to you tonight," he had said.

Had he gone to bed? No, he would not go to bed until he saw her. She knew Julian well enough to understand his inflexible determination. She hesitated to form again in her mind the words which would combat the force of his argument. Julian would not approve. She must talk him down.

Leaning forward she knocked vigorously enough to be heard above the storm. There was no reply. Again she knocked with no result.

"Julian," she called and then shouted, "Julian."

Bewildered, shaken by some nameless dread, she stood very still in the darkness of the hall. Her mouth felt dry. Her heart was pounding. Silly to be so disturbed. Julian must have gone upstairs. He had tired of waiting and had gone to bed. Somehow she felt sure he hadn't. It was the frightful racket that upset her nerves and her apprehension of the imminent scene. Perhaps he had dropped to sleep inside. She knew the soundness of his slumber; he was a man who, by his own admission, could not be waked by less than an ex-plotion.

Patricia turned the knob, pushed against the door. With a sense of definite shock she saw that there was no light in the card room. A fine spray of water blew against her face. A window must be open.

"Julian," called Patricia, her tone high pitched and frightened.

"Julian."
Her voice was lost in the wildness of the wind. Suddenly she was desperately afraid. She was afraid to turn on the light. Her knees shook violently, a lock of loosened hair whipped across her mouth. Trembling, terrified, she fumbled for the switch. Light blazed into the room.

Julian Haverholt was seated in his leather chair. Cards were scattered on the table before him and were scurrying to and fro upon the floor where rain was dashing from the open window. Julian's gray eyes were wide in a look of infinite surprise. Down his cheek a thin trickle of blood moved from a bullet hole in his forehead.

He was dead.

Patricia knew that she was screaming. Above the wild fury of the storm she heard her own screams of mortal terror. Julian's open eyes stared straight into her eyes. Rain poured through the open window just behind him, beat upon the carpet, dashed across his hands. Blood moving slowly down his forehead, twinkled on his shirt front, seeped upon the bustling cards before his outspread hands. They danced with every savage gust of wind, leaping from the table to the floor like autumn's falling leaves.

The girl claved backward at the door and then ran forward with a rush and flung herself beside the leather chair crying senselessly, "Julian, Julian." It was no use. Julian Haverholt was dead. The smile of faint surprise was fixed forever on his lips. The rain poured upon them both, the murdered man and frantic girl.

Chinese Watchword For War Is "Preparedness"

Attempts to bestir the Chinese people to a pitch of anti-occidentalism by way of a Pan-Asiatic move. The Japanese Military Attache refers to alleged economic encroachments in China by the United States, Great Britain, France, Germany and Russia.

In addition to enraging the Chinese, these Japanese official statements have caused irritation and worry to the legations of the nations who are pilloried. While no official protests have been made to the Japanese Legation here, informal inquiries have been made as to the object which Japan has in mind by such an open campaign.

In the meantime the Japanese Minister with a large staff has spent several weeks in Peiping meeting of men with the ranking Chinese officials. These include General Ho Ying-hua, Minister of War and Chairman of the Peiping Branch Military Council, and Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peiping Branch Political Council.

Both Chinese and Japanese deny that these conversations are in any way formal negotiations for the settlement of the serious outstanding no-Japanese issues. On the other hand, the Japanese are holding on to administration of North China as apace.

The Japanese Army moves freely everywhere between Peiping and Shensi and the Great Wall. Detachments travel by train sticking up propaganda posters at stations while Japanese officers tell the Chinese police and gendarmes where and when they may operate against native bandits in the intra-mural regions of China.

Earlier in the year Japanese military planes showered North China with leaflets designed to arouse a hatred of the white races in the Chinese populace. This is now followed by the open warnings of the Military Attache's office telling the Chinese what they must do when the predicted war arrives, and the general attempt to create distrust among the Chinese and European nations.

Despite this, China continues to consider Japan her arch-enemy, refusing to recognize the geographical gains made by Japanese arms on Chinese territory during the past two years.

(In the second article the Chinese fear of Japanese penetration into Mongolia will be discussed.)

VISITING HERE

Mr. and Mrs. William Robinson, of Albany, N. Y., are guests for a few days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Milnor, Bath Road.

VERDICT OF THE AGES

Early Egyptian Tomb—
His earthly tenement was shattered by beer and wine, and his spirit departed before it was called for.

Solomon 1000 B. C.—
Look not thou upon the wine when it is red, when it giveth its color in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpent and stingeth like an adder.

Buddha 550 B. C.—
Drink not liquors that intoxicate and disturb the reason.

Pliny the Elder 79 A. D.—
There is nothing about which we put ourselves to more trouble than wine, as if nature hath not given to us the most salubrious drink with which all other animals are satisfied.

Chaucer 1340—
Character and shame depart when wine comes in.

Shakespeare 1600—
O thou invisible spirit of wine, if thou hast no name to be known by, let us call thee devil!

Abraham Lincoln 1842—
Liquor might have defenders, but no defense. Whether or not the world be vastly benefited by a total and final banishment from it of all intoxicating drinks, seems to me to be an open question.

M. Georges Clemenceau 1920—
It is definitely settled that alcohol is a poison; a poison destructive of human energy and, for this reason, of society as a whole.

Sir Wilfred Grenfell 1928—
Alcohol has wrecked more lives, starved more children and murdered more women than any other single factor.

Thomas A. Edison 1930—
I still feel that prohibition is the greatest experiment yet made to benefit man.

Chester Rowell 1930—
One drink is too many for the man at the automobile wheel, and the danger point is far short of the drunken point in nearly all of the occupations of life.

Josephus Daniels 1930—
The man who opposes prohibition, and says in the next breath that he could never tolerate the return of the saloon, either is practising deception or he does not know that as surely as night follows day, the fall of prohibition means the reenthronement of the saloon.

The Journal of the National Education Association.

1934 FORD V-8 GIVES YOU EXCEPTIONAL

RIDING COMFORT

Note how the flexible transverse springs give you greater SAFETY and ECONOMY in addition to riding comfort

See how the body remains level while one wheel is up and the other down? This is because of the Ford transverse springs. These springs are set crosswise and attached to the body in the middle. This permits the springs and wheels to move independent of the body. All road shocks are thus absorbed without affecting the level of the car.

The top photograph shows the front of the Ford V-8. This one shows how the Ford transverse springs operate on all four wheels — not just two. The Ford gives you the same good riding comfort in the rear as in the front.

Better not try this roadability test with any car but a Ford or something will happen. There's no strain on it when the front wheel on one side and the rear wheel on the other are raised 12 inches or more off the road. In the ordinary car the doors wouldn't open and the top fabric would wrinkle, showing strain.

Other features of Ford comfort and safety

TORQUE-TUBE DRIVE—
This is that long, rigid tube that encases and protects the driveshaft. It combines with the radius-rods to relieve the springs of all driving and braking strain. This leaves the springs free to do a 100% job and means safer and more comfortable driving.

LESS WEAR ON TIRES—
You have less tire wear in the New Ford V-8 because the solid front axle and radius-rods keep all four wheels in alignment. This saves you many dollars in the life of the car.

SOLID FRONT AXLE—
An added safety factor. The solid front axle and radius-rods keep the wheels in alignment.

BETTER BRAKE ACTION—
The Ford radius-rods keep the axles in alignment and assure equal braking action under all conditions.

GREATER SAFETY—
Ford transverse springs help to prevent sideways on curves and rough roads.

SHORT CUTS TO THE DINNER TABLE

By Vera A. Schneider

Today I am going to devote our entire column to requests which have come to me, and since I have a little stack right here on my desk asking for candied sweet potatoes, this will be the first to receive my attention. I did not realize that so many homemakers did not know how to make them, but judging from the requests, it would seem I'm all wrong—so here it is.

CANDIED SWEET POTATOES

4 medium sized sweet potatoes
1/3 cupful butter
1/2 cupful brown sugar.
Boil potatoes until almost done. Cool, peel and cut in quarters lengthwise. Place on greased baking pan, sprinkle with brown sugar and dot with butter. Bake in a moderately hot oven until nicely browned, basting frequently with the liquid in the pan.

Another request comes to me for a good pumpkin pie recipe and I hope the one given below meets with your approval, Mrs. Walton. This recipe is one used by a leading chef and is served in one of our most fashionable hotels. It calls for:

1 1/2 cupfuls cooked and strained pumpkin
2/3 cupful brown sugar
1/2 teaspoonful ginger
1/2 teaspoonful cinnamon
1/2 teaspoonful salt
2 cupfuls milk
2 well beaten eggs.

Combine ingredients in the order given, stirring until smooth. Pour into a lined pie plate and bake for about ten minutes in a 425 degree oven, then reduce heat to 375 and bake for 30 minutes longer. Serve when chilled.

And here we have a little lady who says—"Please, could you give me a good recipe for fudge?" The writing indicates that the request comes from a little girl and it reminds me of my first thrills in the kitchen when I was permitted to mix a batch of fudge. What grand and glorious days, and what "awful" fudge!

But here is the recipe little Miss R. C. M. and may you enjoy yourself as I did years ago.

CHOCOLATE FUDGE

2 squares unsweetened chocolate—cut in pieces.
2/3 cupful cold milk
2 cupfuls sugar
Dash salt
2 tablespoonfuls butter
1 teaspoonful vanilla.

Add chocolate to milk and place over low flame. Cook until mixture is smooth and blended, stirring constantly. Add sugar and salt and stir until sugar is dissolved and mixture boils. Continue cooking, without stirring, until it forms a soft ball when tried in cold water. Remove from fire and add butter and vanilla. Cool to lukewarm, then beat until mixture begins to thicken and lose its gloss. Pour

SUNDAY DINNER SUGGESTIONS

By ANN PAGE

THE household marketer should find it easy to provide her family with a varied diet and yet keep within her budget these days.

Meats are relatively low in price. Especially low even compared to last year is fowl for fricassee. Fish are not so plentiful nor low priced when the weather is cold or stormy as it is in summer but supplies are adequate.

Vegetables continue to be plentiful and moderate in price. Spinach and string beans offer outstanding values. New cabbage and potatoes are beginning to come into market. Tomatoes are more plentiful than in recent weeks.

Strawberries are here. Grapefruit, oranges and apples, however, dominate the fruit market.

The Quaker Maid offers these three dinner menus.

Low Cost Dinner

Lamb Fricassee with Dumplings
Boiled Rice
Buttered Onions
Bread and Butter
Baked Custard with Raisins
Tea or Coffee

Medium Cost Dinner

Chicken Pot Pie
Sweet Potatoes
New Spinach
Currant Jelly
Bread and Butter
Chocolate Ice Cream
Coffee

Very Special Dinner

Boiled Lamb with Mint Sauce
Grown Potatoes
Green Peas
Tomato Salad with Dressing
Rolls and Butter
Orange Spanish Cream

GARAGE SET AFIRE

into greased pan, cool and cut in squares.

The last request I'll be able to take care of today is the one for old-fashioned Buckwheat cakes. Next week, perhaps, we shall attend to more of these letters that have come to me.

A garage in the rear of the residence of Mrs. Jennie Gardull, Lafayette street, was set afire last night. Oil was poured on the side of one of the garages in a row, which was unoccupied and then the building was set afire. The Consolidated Department responded and quickly extinguished the blaze. The loss was slight.

GIGLOS WIN OVER HERMITS, SCORE 30 TO 18

In the Firman Inter-Club basketball games last night at No. 4 fire house court, the Gigilos took over the Hermits, 30-18.

Both teams in this tray showed a decided improvement over last week's game as the passing was more plentiful and the fouling less.

"Tootie" Gosline was high scorer for the Gigilos, scoring nine points.

In the second game the Play Boys won over the Saxons, 26-19. This game was very well played by both teams but showed a little more roughness than necessary.

Dick Brown was high scorer for the Play Boys, scoring 11 points.

Club Standing
	Won	Lost
Play Boys	2	0
Saxons	1	1
Hermits	0	2
Gigilos	1	1

Referee: Kervick.
Scorer: Blanch.
Timer: Jeffries.

Tonight the Firmans will send a team against the Bristol Eagles at No. 4 hall at 7.30 o'clock.

FATHERS AND SONS TO HOLD SPORTS MEETING

Head basketball coach Jourdet of Pennsylvania University, and captain of this year's great Penn court team, "Shorty" O'Donnell, will be among the guest speakers at a Father and Son sports night to be held in the auditorium of the Bensalem High School on Wednesday evening, January 24th, at 8 o'clock.

Supervising Principal Samuel K. Faust, in announcing this affair yesterday, said, "We want to make this meeting one long to be remembered, one that will bring every father and son in this township out together for an evening's enjoyment."

Another speaker who is sure to make an impression with those in attendance will be Ira Thomas, famous old-time catcher for the Philadelphia Athletics and now scout for Connie Mack. Mr. Thomas will relate some of his experiences in the American baseball league and give some intimate sidelights on some of the "Athletes" famous players.

During the meeting letters will be awarded to the football squad by Coach George Reimer. This team went through the season with a 50% average. Since this is only the fourth season of football at Cornwells, the school officials feel that the season was quite successful.

TWO UPSETS LIKELY IN CAGE LEAGUE HERE

Two upsets are most likely to occur in the Bristol Basketball League schedule tonight on the Italian Mutual Aid court. In the first game the Hawks are expected to stop the five-game winning streak of the Paterson Parchment Paper Company and in the second fracas it remains up to the Knights of Columbus to bring to a halt the undefeated streak of the Hibernians.

The Hawks in their second debut last week appeared good against the first half champions, the Hibernians, and dropped the tray after holding an eleven point lead. A change in the lineup did not work up to expectations and caused the birds to drop the contest. Manager Jenks will use his same lineup and is expecting to hang up a win. The Paterson team is still sticking to the same line-up that is bringing them victory after victory, January 26—

MAY SEND MARINES TO CUBA

Washington, D. C., Jan. 18—If the lives of American Nationals in Cuba are seriously endangered, by mob violence, the United States Marines and Base Jackets will be landed immediately, without awaiting any consultation by this government with other Latin-American nations. This was learned today as the State Department awaited with apprehension, what is expected would be a decision shown down in the Cuban political situation.

Any American forces landed, however, probably will be confined to "rescue parties" it was said.

SET TAX RATE

DOYLESTOWN, Jan. 18—In session on Monday afternoon the Bucks County Commissioners set the tax rate on real estate in the county for 1934 at 4 mills. The County Commissioners also adopted the budget for the year.

The Jolly Sewing Club members held a meeting Tuesday evening at the home of the Misses Carango, Lafayette street.
